Comcast v. Rovi (Petitioner Experience)

- Banner Witcoff filed four waves of IPRS on behalf of Comcast in defense of multiple ITC and district court attacks by Rovi.
  - First wave: filed against 15 patents and led to invalidity or dismissal in the litigation of every asserted claim in 14 of the 15 patents
  - Second wave: filed against eight patents and resulted in the invalidity of every claim in seven challenged patents, with Rovi asking the PTAB to cancel the claims in the eighth patent
  - Third wave: filed against eight patents, IPRs were instituted on every challenged claim of the eight patents
  - Fourth wave: filed against six patents
- Concluded with both parties settling favorably after filing the fourth wave of IPRs and prior to final written decisions in the third round of IPRs
- Patents related to television program guides, digital video recorders (DVRs), mobile services, network architectures, and related software.
