B&W wins patent infringement lawsuit.

November 8, 2005

Banner & Witcoff successfully represented one of the world's largest automotive parts suppliers against a patent infringement lawsuit involving multiple patents.

The litigation team secured an early victory by forcing the patentee to withdraw one patent, sent another patent back to the patent office for reexamination, and then counter sued on a third party patent portfolio acquired for the client.

The entire case was settled on favorable terms.

The litigation team included Banner & Witcoff lawyers Peter McDermott, Fred Meeker, Chris Roth, Steve Chang, Greg Cohan, and the client's Corporate Intellectual Property Counsel and IP Manager.

Posted: November 8, 2005