Darrell Mottley Discusses Cross-Border IP Tech and Trade With Washington Lawyer

Banner Witcoff attorney Darrell Mottley was quoted in an article published in the May/June 2021 edition of the Washington Lawyer titled "Tech & Trade: A Look at New Opportunities & Risks."

The article examines how cutting-edge technology and cross-border transactions continue to spark new legal issues related to intellectual property protection, data use, privacy, cybersecurity and national security.

Darrell told the publication that over the course of his two-decade-plus career, he's watched innovation shift from a focus on basic communication and mechanical inventions toward software and app development, artificial intellgience, blockchain, 5G wireless and other advanced technologies.

"We can't turn back the clock," Darrell said of accelerating technology diffusion. "Technology effortlessly leaps national borders; we have to engage and cooperate. It just recognizes the reality of today's world."
