Darrell Mottley to Supervise IP and Patent Clinic at Howard University

Banner Witcoff's Darrell Mottley will serve as adjunct professor and supervising attorney at Howard University School of Law's Intellectual Property and Patent Clinic.

The clinic "is a course where students interact with inventors or designers, and prepare actual patent applications which will be filed for inventors under the supervision of licensed a Patent Attorney," according to the university.

The semester-long clinic begins August 19 and is for second and third-year law students. Click here for more information.

Posted: August 4, 2020