JOHN MARSHALL LAW SCHOOL
CENTER FOR INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAW

Message from the Center

Dear Colleagues,

Rapid change in IP seems to be the only constant in our field. The new administration has placed a number of new IP leaders at the top of key governmental agencies. Patent reform legislation continues to evolve and advance in fits and starts through Congress. New IP standards and approaches have emerged from a number of key judicial decisions at all levels of courts. New technologies and attempts to accommodate them continue to define and redefine the field of IP protection and practice.

Amidst this flood of IP changes, the Center for Intellectual Property Law at The John Marshall Law School is pleased to present its 55th Annual Intellectual Property Law Conference as an aid to the practicing bar in keeping up with this rapidly changing field. The Conference includes judicial, administrative, bar, and academic presenters with extensive experience in the IP field who will share their insights into the most important IP developments and the future implications of these developments.

John Marshall presents this year's conference as part of its continuing service to the bar and its mission as a leading center of IP education. The IP Center at John Marshall offers programs on a broad range of IP topics for the practicing bar and one of the most comprehensive intellectual property law academic programs in the United States.

We look forward to seeing you at this and subsequent events presented by the Center for Intellectual Property Law.

Professor Richard S. Gruner

Director, Center for Intellectual Property Law

Charles W. Shifley

Conference Chair, Banner & Witcoff

The John Marshall Law School and its Center for Intellectual Property Law gratefully acknowledge the generous contributions of our Gold Sponsors. Their support allows The John Marshall Law School to continue to offer high quality legal education programs for area IP practitioners and to provide fee waivers to our students so that they may participate in these programs as well.

Leading the Way in Intellectual Property Legal Education

The John Marshall Law School in Chicago has one of the oldest and most highly regarded intellectual property (IP) law programs in the country, offering an extensive number of courses at both the JD and LLM levels. John Marshall's new MS degree program in IP law is geared to the non-lawyer IP professional.

Nationally recognized full-time faculty, practitioners, and members of the judiciary help prepare students in all facets of IP law, including patent, trademark, copyright, trade secret, sports, entertainment, and international IP law. Opportunities to take courses offered by the Center for Information Technology and Privacy Law help keep students current on information technology-based issues impacting IP law and practice.

Employers know that John Marshall graduates receive exceptional training in IP law and have the practical skills needed to help law firms and other organizations succeed.
