

No Stem No Problem: Janet Lee Presents at Loyola University Lunch and Learn Panel

Shareholder Janet Lee will join Loyola University Chicago School of Law's No Stem No Problem, Lunch and Learn Panel on Wednesday, September 30.

The event provides students with the opportunity to network with attorneys who work in intellectual property but do not have a scientific background or engineering degree. The panel discussion aims to show students that not possessing a STEM degree is not a barrier in the industry and educate students about the breadth and plethora of opportunities available in the field.
