Richard S. Stockton comments on importance of Saul Lefkowitz Moot Court Competition in new INTA video

Richard S. Stockton, the former national chair of the Saul Lefkowitz Moot Court Competition, comments on the importance of the annual competition for law students in a new International Trademark Association video.

According to INTA, the competition introduces law students to important issues arising in U.S. trademark and unfair competition law. Approximately 80 teams of law students participate, getting the opportunity to develop their brief writing and oral advocacy skills in a mock courtroom experience.

Click here to watch the video.

Marc S. Cooperman is also a former national chair of the competition, and Binal J. Patel and Gregory G. Schlenz are former Chicago regional competition chairs. Anna L. King, Maurine L. Knutsson and Jake Webb are also active in the national or Chicago regional competitions.

Posted: August 7, 2017