Richard S. Stockton participates in a podcast on the gTLD reveal with the American Marketing Association

June 20, 2012

Mr. Stockton is interviewed by the American Marketing Association on the topic of generic top level domains. Mr. Stockton discusses how to review the list of gTLD applicants and outlines the gTLD process going forward, as well as objections and other ways to take action against concerning gTLD applications. Please click here to listen to the podcast. The podcast is also available on the American Marketing Association website.

Posted: June 20, 2012