Mercedes Meyer Discusses US Patent Trends in 2024 with Managing IP

Mercedes Meyer explored 2024 US patent trends in a Managing IP article. The article features a handful of attorneys and four trends and developments they're keeping tabs on in the new year.

Mercedes speaks to the Federal Circuit's decision to uphold the USPTO's decision to invalidate four Cellect patents for obviousness-type double patenting, stating, "I think a lot just depends on the court and what their philosophy is. But legislative intent on a lot of things seems to be getting forgotten."

The full article can be found here. A subscription is required to read on.

Posted: January 12, 2024